

Success Story

18th World Congress on Lung Cancer (WCLC)

18th World Congress on Lung Cancer (WCLC) was held from 15th to 18th October, 2017 at PACIFICO Yokohama.

After the success of the Congress, Mr. Mathias Posch had kindly sent us his comment from his experience in Yokohama as follows;

We organized the World Conference on Lung Cancer 2017 with almost 7,000 attendees at Pacifico Yokohama and were able to experience the wonderful city and fantastic center firsthand. Yokohama proved to be an excellent choice as a conference destination, as it has great access from around the globe through Haneda and Narita airports and offers a wide variety of attractive activities for delegates. Pacifico Yokohama was flexible to our needs and their staff always attentive. I remember the wonderful hospitality and great service offered by the teams of Pacifico as well as the Intercontinental Hotel and other suppliers, which really made our experience in Yokohama so memorable. The Japanese “Omotenashi” is one of a kind and our delegates agreed in the post conference survey, that Japan in general and Yokohama specifically are an excellent destination for international conferences like ours.
